

GARDEN

video art project

by Mischa Badasyan

GARDEN is a metaphorical expression of living and growing together of people with different background. It seems we are living in the same city and in the same district but we don't really have a community feeling. The opposite we are avoiding each other and trying to have less contact to our neighbors. Furthermore we would like to focus on people of color, refugees, and migrants who are new in the city and still looking for a connection and bonding. Our idea is to create flower installations with different people and make a blossoming garden. Human Garden is an attempt to show the beauty of people and as a positive experience of embracing your own identity. This video project is an expression of empowerment and freedom.
